PRESIDENT WILSON REPLIES TO ANSWER OF THE TEUTONS

ORDERS DEMOBILIZATION OF ALL RUSSIAN ARMIES AT ONCE

Dispatch From Brest-Litovsk Declares Russia Desists in Signing a Formal Peace With Germany, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey, but has Ordered all of her Troops to Return Home.

RUSSIA'S EXIT FROM THE WAR LEAVES RUMANIA SURROUNDED

Prominent Part Russians Played in First Two Years of the War is Vividly Recalled by Present Action—Held all Austrians and Most of Germans Throughout Year of 1915.

AMSTERDAM, February 11.—(Associated Press Cable)—Russia has declared a state of war to be at an end and has ordered the demobilization of Russian forces on all fronts, according to a dispatch received here today, dated Brest-Litovsk on Sunday. The dispatch follows:

"The president of the Russian delegation at today's sitting stated that while Russia was desisting from signing a formal peace treaty it declared the state of war to be ended with Germany, Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria, simultaneously giving orders for complete demobilization of Russian forces on all fronts."

Russia steps formally out of the war by the act of the Bolshevik government which seized the reins of power in Petrograd last November.

The authority of this government seems virtually unquestioned in northern Russia and the Teutonic powers already have assured normal hospitalities along virtually all the remainder of the original long line in the East by signing a peace with the Ukraine and isolating Rumania.

Although cutting little figure in the war for nearly a year Russia's vital part in the conflict comes forcibly to mind as the circumstances leading up to her exit are reviewed.

Becoming a belligerent in August 1914 through Germany's declaration of war upon her, her troops soon were sweeping through east Prussia creating a diversion which hampered the Germans in their first dash through Belgium.

Though defeated by Hindenburg at Tannenberg she rallied quickly and by winter was hammering again at the German borders and was overrunning Austrian territory.

It took the bulk of the Austrians and a large portion of Germans virtually an entire year's campaign in 1915 to break Russia's hold on Galicia, drive her out of Poland and the lower Baltic territory and force her armies back of the line of which Brest-Litovsk, the scene of the recent peace negotiations, formed the keystone.

INCREASE OF WAGES ASKED

By Associated Press Dispatch. Washington, February 11.—Wage increases of 10 per cent with a minimum wage of $3.59 were asked of the railroad wage commission today by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

In reiterating the demand made on the railroads last fall it was claimed they were "so moderate that the firemen expected them to be readily granted."

MAKE SEARCH FOR MESSAGES

By Associated Press Dispatch.

An Atlantic Port, February 11.—Government officials here today began the task of scrutinizing eight motor truck loads of written and printed matter found among the effects of the passengers of the Nieu Amsterdam, which arrived here recently.

The collection included phonograph records which, it is believed, contain information of value to the enemy.

FRENCH ORDER MILLION FOOTBALLS

(By Associated Press Cable)

Paris, February 11.—The French government has ordered one million footballs for the army, to be delivered within six months.

COMMISSION IS TAKEN OVER

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, February 11.—Director General McAdoo today took over the commission of car service of the American Railway Association and created a car service section of the railroad administration division of transportation.

At the same time he appointed an inter-regional traffic committee to study diverting traffic from the more seriously congested gateway to the more open ports.

BELL TO BE MELTED

Amsterdam, Feb. 11.—The great bell of Cologne Cathedral ("Maria Gloria") was rung for the last time on New Year's eve, and the metal which weighs several tons will be used for war purposes.

The bell was first rung on the birthday of William I, on March 22, 1877, and was cast from French guns captured in 1870-71.

WOMEN OF ENGLAND DOING THEIR SHARE

DISPATCH RIDER, TAILORRESS, PETTY OFFICER, ORDINARY SEAMAN.

The Tommy Waacks, women who belong to the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, and the "Wrens," of the Women's Royal Naval Service, are the real war workers of Great Britain. The women of both services perform all sorts of general work, invaluable to the British government in pushing the war. The women are volunteers and come from all ranks of society. They work behind the line in France and many have been decorated for bravery and daring under fire. (Upper left corner, dispatch rider for Tommy Waacks). ## ROAR OF BIG GUNS GROWS IN THE WEST

Small American Force Fought Desperately in No Man's Land Before Overcome.

Increased Activity is Noted on Italian Front As Well As American Sector.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

In France where the American forces recently have engaged the enemy in minor encounters the violence of artillery action is increasing daily.

On both sides of the Meuse and in the Vosges the French and Germans are engaged in an artillery duel while frequent enemy raids on French positions are reported.

Details of the encounter on Friday night with superior German forces in the region of St. Mihiel show that every American fought desperately to overcome the larger force of the enemy.

Suddenly coming upon the Germans in "no man's land" the little party of 14 Americans quickly changed formation and in the minute and a half that followed before the enemy retreated the rifle gave way to hand grenades and automatics so close were the combatants.

On Saturday an American artilleryman was killed by shell fire and five others wounded. These casualties indicate that the American forces in the trenches have assumed their full share of the burden in the sector under their control.

The big guns are bearing the brunt of the work in Italy. On the Asiago plateau artillery duels are reported to be lively.

BRITISH LOSSES DURING WEEK

London, February 11.—Associated Press Cable.

British casualties reported in the last week are 7,077, divided as follows:

Killed or died of wounds, officers, 73; men, 1360; wounded or missing, officers, 155; men, 5,489.

This total is only slightly in excess of last week's figures, which amounted to 6,354, reached the low mark for several months.

IN STIRRING SPEECH BEFORE JOINT SESSION OF CONGRESS, PRESIDENT MAKES ANSWER TO CENTRAL POWERS

Chief Executive Finds Some Sincerity in Words of Austrian Foreign Minister, But Declares German Chancellor is Living in a Dead World and His Purposes are Selfish and Insincere.

AMERICA'S WAR FOR EMANCIPATION HAS JUST STARTED SAYS PRESIDENT AND NO PATCHED-UP PEACE WANTED

Aim of Germany to Secure Advantageous Peace and Then Subscribe to International Covenant to Make her Holdings Secure, but America is Prepared to Fight on and on Until Right Prevails, Declares President.

WASHINGTON, FEBRUARY 11.—(By Associated Press Dispatch)—

President Wilson, appearing unexpectedly before Congress again today, replied to the recent peace speeches by Count Von Hertling, the German Chancellor, and Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, by reminding the statesmen of the Central Powers that peace only can be discussed on the basis of permanency and justice, and broadly warning the peoples of the Central Empires that the part of the United States in the war for emancipation only has begun.

Plainly he warned the German military autocracy that there was to be no pausing in the mobilization of America's vast military resources now steadily on their way to the front and if peace were to be discussed it would have to be on a basis of sincerity.

Otherwise, the President made it plain there was to be no turning back until military autocracy was crushed by force of arms.

Count Czernin's speech, the President openly regarded sympathetically. But he considered the Austrian foreign minister restrained by Austria's alliances and her dependence on Germany.

"Count Czernin," said the President, "seems to see the fundamental elements of peace with clear eyes and does not seek to obscure them."

Chancellor Hertling's speech, however, the President characterized as "very vague and confusing," and "full of equivocal phrases," leading nowhere clearly.

The aim of the German Chancellor as judged from his speech, the President thought, evidently was to secure a peace advantageous to the aims of the German military autocracy and then subscribe to an international covenant to make it secure.

Count Hertling, the President declared, evidently was seeking such a peace as was made at the Congress of Vienna.

"What is at stake now," the President said, "is the peace of the world."

"What we are striving for is a new international order based upon broad and universal principles of right and justice—no mere peace of shreds and patches."

"Is it possible that Count Von Hertling in fact is living in his thoughts in a world dead and gone?"

There was a test the President said, which would show whether it was of any avail to go on exchanging peace views and it could be made by applying the following principles.

- No. 1. Each part of the final settlement must be based upon essential justice to bring a permanent peace.
- No. 2. Peoples and provinces are not to be bartered about like chattels to establish a balance of power.
- No. 3. Territorial settlements must be for the benefit of people concerned and not merely adjustments of rival states' claims.
- No. 4. Well defined national aspirations must be accorded all possible satisfaction.

A general peace, he said, "erected on such foundation could be discussed. Until such a peace can be secured we have no choice but to go on."

In conclusion the president warned the Central Empires that the vast resources of the United States would accomplish, in the end, what might be accomplished by peaceful negotiations.

The President was interrupted by applause at every reference of the United States standing steadfastly against a patched-up peace, probably the greatest applause broke forth when the President declared that the militarists of Germany were the only element now preventing a world peace. When he concluded, after speaking twenty minutes, the entire audience as usual, arose and cheered.

PRESIDENT'S SPEECH

The President spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen of the Congress:

"On the eighth of January I had the honor of addressing you on the objects of the war as our people conceive them. The prime minister of Great Britain has spoken in similar terms on the 5th of January. To these addresses the German Chancellor replied on the 24th and Count Czernin of Austria on the same day. It is gratifying to have our desires so promptly realized that all exchanges of views on the great matter should be made in the hearing of all the world.

"Count Czernin's reply, which is directed chiefly to my own address on the eighth of January, is uttered in a very friendly tone.

"He finds in my statement a sufficiently encouraging approach to the views of his own government to justify him in believing that it furnishes a basis for a more detailed discussion of purposes by the two governments. He is represented to have intimated that the views he was expressing had been communicated to me beforehand and that I was aware of them at the time he was uttering them. But in this I am sure he was misunderstood. I had received no intimation of what he intended to say. There was of course no reason why he should communicate privately with me. I am quite content to be one of his public audience.

"Count Von Hertling's reply, is, I must say, very vague and very confusing. It is full of equivocal phrases and leads are not clear. But it is certainly in a very different tone from that of Count Czernin and apparently of an opposite purpose. It confirms, I am sorry to say, rather than removes the unfortunate impression made by what we had learned of the conference at Brest-Litovsk. His discussion and acceptance of our general principles lead him to no conclusion. He refuses to ally them to the substantive item which must constitute the body of any final settlement. He is jealous of international action and of international council. He accepts, he said, the principle of public diplomacy but he appears to insist that it be confined, at any rate in this case, to the generality and that of the several particular questions of territory and sovereignty. The several questions upon whose settlement depends the acceptance of speech of 23 states now engaged in the war must be discussed and settled in general council not by several of the nations most immediately concerned by interest or neighbors. He agrees that the seas should be free, out looks askance at any limitation to that freedom by international action in the interest of the common order. He would, without reserve, be glad to see economic barriers removed between nation and nations, for that could in no way impede the ambitions of the military party with whom he seems constrained to keep on terms. Neither does he raise objection to a limitation of armament. That matter will be settled of itself, he thinks, by the economic conditions which must follow the war. But the German colonies, he demands, must be returned without debate. He will discuss with no one but the representatives of Russia what disposition shall be made of the people and the land of the Baltic provinces; with no one but the government of France the "condition" under which French territory shall be evacuated; and only with Austria what shall be done with Poland.

"In the determination of all questions affecting the Balkan states he refers, as I understand him, to Austria and Turkey, and with regard to the agreement to be entered into concerning the non-Turkish peoples of the present Ottoman Empire, to the Turkish authorities themselves. After

ENSILAGE CAVES IN KILLING FARM HAND NEAR COOKS

James Taylor, aged 45, colored, farm hand residing on the William Bostwick farm on the Waterloo pike three miles from Cooks station, met death in an unusual manner, Saturday evening, by frozen ensilage in a silo caving down upon him while he was in the act of removing ensilage from the silo.

Taylor went to the silo on the Bostwick farm about four o'clock Saturday evening and it was not until sometime later that neighbors noticed his team standing near the silo and thinking something was wrong, they investigated, with the result that it was soon found that the man's body was beneath a pile of ensilage in the silo.

During the cold weather the ensilage had frozen two to three feet around the edge of the silo, and a large amount of the feed had been removed from the center. The thaw of Saturday loosed the frozen ensilage so that when the man climbed into the silo and was ready to throw out feed, the ensilage fell down from several feet above his head and literally buried him alive.

Laterns were obtained and the neighbors set to work removing the feed from over body of the dead man. It was nine o'clock before his body was uncovered and removed from the silo.

Taylor was married.

AMONG WOMEN WAR WORKERS

An important change in the operation of the Red Cross workshop is announced in the resignation of the chairman, Miss Marie Lanum and the appointment of Mrs. Eva J. Penn to the chairmanship.

Miss Lanum has had charge of the Red Cross workshop, with the exception of a few weeks, since its organization and has shown immense capability in its management. She took up the work at the time when it was most difficult. People had not yet become generally interested; the work was new and needed competent and constant direction and made tremendous demands upon her time and knowledge. Naturally possessing executive ability and fully informed as to the requirements of the work, Miss Lanum met the strenuous demands ably and the Red Cross is indebted to her for the workshop's splendid start and well established foundation.

The Red Cross management is also to be congratulated in being able to secure a woman of the prestige and equipment of Mrs. Penn as the new chairman.

Having held the office of Past Grand Matron of the State of Ohio O. E. S. and other foremost lodge offices, Mrs. Penn brings to her war service large experience and an unquestioned ability in leadership. She is also deeply interested and has been actively identified with the Red Cross work.

DRIVES AIRPLANE THROUGH FLAMING SAUSAGE BALLOON

(By Associated Press Cable)

Rome, February 11.—How an aviator feels when he drives an airplane through a flaming observation balloon is described by Giovanni Ancillotto, an Italian aviator, who demolished an Austrian balloon in that fashion in an air conflict at Rustigne.

The balloon was guarded by three Austrian chaser airplanes. These were engaged by three Italian fighting machines while Ancillotto dived straight at the balloon, at which he opened fire with incendiary bullets at a range of about twenty yards. At the same moment he suddenly realized the danger he was in, for it was clearly impossible for him to avoid collision with the now flaming balloon.

"I thought to myself, it means death," he says in his report. "I closed my eyes and waited. Barely a second passed before I felt a shock, there was a sound of tearing flames rushed across my face. I opened my eyes and found myself a few yards from the ground.

"I started my engine, steadied the machine, glanced at the wings in fear that their support would fail me. They were trembling as though broken, and were carrying some tattered pieces of stuff. But they held, the propeller turned, and the airplane, gradually gained speed, glided toward the Italian lines. A few minutes later I alighted at my camp."

Examination of the machine showed that it had passed clean through the burning balloon. In the shock of collision the wings had actually been broken in the middle, but were held together by the support of the machine gun.

WORKS OF ART TAKEN TO ROME

(Associated Press Correspondence)

London, January 25. — American artists who contributed paintings, drawings or sculptures to the British section of the International Exhibition in Venice in the summer of 1914, will be relieved of anxiety by the announcement that their contributions have been safely transferred to Rome.

On the outbreak of the war these works of art, which could not then be returned owing to transport difficulty and war risk, were removed from the dangerous vicinity of the Arsenal to the basement of one of the palaces, where they remained until a short time ago. In view of the new danger to Venice, the Italian authorities transported the whole foreign exhibit to Rome.

The Importance of Good Highways

The transportation problem of our country is a real and consuming source of anxiety. With the additional burden laid upon the railroads by the demands of the war something heroic must be done if the system is to maintain itself even at a moderate degree of efficiency.

Leaders of thought, along this line, and careful investigators are pointing to the highways of the country, utilized by fleets of motor trucks, as the means of relieving the railroads of their staggering burden. There is nothing revolutionary in the thought and no good reason exists why the problem can not be worked out along this line.

Evidently, the first thing to consider is the condition of our roads and the problem of maintaining them under this unwanted stress. The highway department of the state, by its recent grants for improvements, indicates that an earnest effort is to be made to strengthen the main arteries of travel within the state. The problem of maintenance will immediately become a most pressing one. We doubt not that there must be made legislative provision to meet this condition. If we are really to depend upon our highways to assist in relieving transportation congestion and if these roads are to meet successfully the new stress that will be laid upon them, it is too much to expect that any disorganized maintenance system will suffice.

Highway traffic, in this advanced age, must be encouraged and developed. Good roads are the prime requisite and their upkeep and care, for the retention of their efficiency, are decidedly essential.

Under the present law the problem of maintenance, so far as the main market and intercounty highways of the state are concerned, must be taken care of by the state department.

But something will have to be devised to take care of the county and township roads. The haphazard methods, in vogue so long will no longer meet the situation. We are just coming to appreciate the importance of our highways. Therefore with this appreciation, we must devise some method that is a real method and not a make-shift.

The patrol system will have to be adopted in Ohio unless something more sensible can be thought of. Road caretakers, with a certain section of road to keep up, constantly on the job patching and mending, would be employed under this system. Material would be available all the time and these road section men would be employed the year around to keep the highways in condition.

Railroads use this system and use it successfully. Our highways are just as important to the success and pleasure and convenience of the country as the railroads. Therefore are they not entitled to the same degree of attention?

The Middle-Aged Man

With much timeliness the New York mail decries the tendency to cheapen and throw aside as out of the game the middle-aged man.

The theory that a man is fit only for the scrap heap after he is 50 has been thoroughly discredited by experience in the present war. Military operations more than any other form of activity, demanded youth and the impetuous energy, enterprise and aggressiveness that have been supposed to go only with youth. In this war these qualities indispensable in the moral make-up of any military leader, have been found mostly in men well past the sixty-year line.

And yet there are employers who think that at 45 man begins to lose his "punch," his capacity for aggressive enterprise, his value as a part of the human machinery of a business enterprise. Never was a more serious economic mistake made. The man of 50 who has lived wisely and has kept in touch with the spirit of the time is at his best. To bodily vigor he joins experience, and experience means judgment. To judgment he joins a sense of responsibility and a habit of steadiness—two qualities of estimable value in business.

Poetry For Today

AMERICA'S MESSAGE TO KAISER.
We are coming, Kaiser Wilhelm,
With a million men and more,
From the foamy-flecked Pacific
To the blue Atlantic's shore;
Coming with a dauntless purpose,
With our battle flags unfurled,
Coming to you with a message
That shall sweep around the world.

We are coming, Kaiser Wilhelm,
Like a river deep in flood,
And that rushing, pulsing current
In the surge of freemen's blood;
It will overturn thy boasting,
It will swallow up thy pride,
Overwhelming vain hopes of conquest
Underneath its rolling tide.

We are coming, Kaiser Wilhelm,
Like the Persian troop of old
That wild night Belshazzar feasted
And defiled the cups of gold:
Lo! once more thine "Mene, Tekel!"
Flashes on thy palace wall:
"Me and Gott," thy blatant fiction,
Cannot shield nor save thy fall.

We are coming, Kaiser Wilhelm,
And our starlit banner stands
For the freedom of the nations,
For the rights of all the lands;
And the colors will not waver
Until men are safe and free,
And mad Kaiser dreams are buried
Deeper than the deepest sea.

How Joe Found Himself

PART ONE, CHAPTER ONE.

Like many other boys his age, Joe Tate thought more about the latest song hit or dance step, than he did about his job. And, for that reason Joe was usually looking for a new job. He was nineteen and as yet hadn't decided upon what he really wanted to do. He drifted from one job to another, uninterested in all of them. He had never FOUND himself—for the simple reason he had never tried to. He had plenty of "pep" when there was any fun going on, but he never looked or found the greatest fun of all—the fun in his work. He could tell you the batting average of every player in the big leagues, and could give you fifty reasons why Benny Leonard wasn't as good a fighter as Gans. Not that he had never seen Gans in action but he had figured it out that way and could argue so well—from reading the dope—that you'd almost believe it yourself. It never occurred to Joe that same energy put into a business argument would probably net him a million dollars. But what did Joe care about the future—he was young, healthy, and if anyone suggested to him that he wouldn't ALWAYS be so—he would have thought them dippy. If he had thought about it at all.

Joe's father had never understood Joe, for, unfortunately, like most fathers—instead of making a "pal" of their sons they have the mistaken idea that they are a superior being and all they have to do is to issue an order and it was to be obeyed. Instead of getting acquainted with their boys and showing them why such and such a thing is wrong. A child's first love is their parents. And, unless it's knocked out of them, that love will always remain and grow. Naturally, when Joe was told the old formula that he must not smoke or hang around with certain other boys, the first thing he did was to smoke on the quiet and begin to show a marked interest in the forbidden companions. In this you will see that he was not very much different from any other boy.

Joe's friends were gradually leaving one by one and joining the army. Some volunteering and some being drafted, and when Joe went around his old haunts he began to notice there was something the matter. He didn't know what, exactly, but when he would see one of his old pals, home on leave, come swinging by, he sort of felt a lump in his throat as he stood on the old accustomed corner and watched him go down the street. —H. ABDUL HAMID
FORMER HEAD
TURKEY, DIES

Ruler of All Turks Who Was Taken Prisoner in 1909 Passes Away in Salonika Prison.

At One Time Ruled 100,000,000 Subjects in Asia, Africa and Europe.

(By Associated Press Cable)
Amsterdam, February 11.—The death yesterday of Abd-ul-Hamid, former Sultan of Turkey, from inflammation of the lungs, is announced in a dispatch received here today from Constantinople. A state funeral will be held.

Abd-ul-Hamid was for thirty-three years Sultan of the Ottoman Empire, sprawling upon the three continents of Europe, Asia and Africa, and at the same time was commander of the army of Moslems. He was paid homage by nearly a hundred million subjects. Shorn of power, he died a prisoner, pitied, if not despised. He lived in constant dread of death. He had often escaped it only by good luck or unusual precautions against plots. Yet in his later years he had sought death by his own hands, so melancholy had his existence become. He gained ascendancy under circumstances nearly as tragic as those which ended his career. Born September 22, 1848, the second son of Sultan Abd-ul-Medjid, he became sovereign when his elder brother, Murad V., was deposed because of mental incapacity in 1876. It was a time when Turkey was in a state of extreme depression, almost succumbing to the tremendous blows of Russia. Out of this slough the new Sultan saved the remnants of Turkish prestige. Many critics give him credit for a successful regime. Others denounced it as infamous. Whatever the true estimate, it is a fact that the Turkish empire increased its power. Schools were reformed, the army built up, commerce extended and Pan-Islamism created under Abd-ul-Hamid. Stubbornly though he had fought outside forces to prevent disintegration of his empire, his fall came within the empire itself by the rise of the Young Turks, a party bent upon constitutional government. Abd-ul-Hamid granted a constitution but failed to carry out the liberal ideas of the new generation. In the revolution of 1909 he was driven from the Imperial Palace on the shores of the Bosphorus, made a prisoner, and confined in the Villa Latini, a former residence of a Greek merchant, in Salonika, the city where the Young Turk movement had its birth.

E. S. CHURCH OF CHRIST PRESENTS PROGRAM

The Endeavor Society of the Christian Church presented a program last night of exceptional interest to a full house. The great world need was presented in such a unique way, as to make a profound impression on all present. A choir of almost a score of young people sang songs and anthems in keeping with the program. Prayer was offered by Z. E. Irvin and short talks were made by Miss Mayme Allerdiss and Mr. Groves.

Then there was presented the call and need of the various nations, by characters attired in costumes of the different peoples of the earth. Mr. Jacob Miller arrayed in the costume of a "Herald of the King" presented the leading part. Julian Kier with the armor of a knight acted as the "Knight of the Christian Endeavorers". The following with appropriate costumes represented the various nations: Miss Jane Williams, China; Miss Ruth Nelson, Japan; Miss Edna Dowler, India; Miss Elsie Rumor, the Islands; Mr. Chester Steffy, the Mohammedans. Each spoke for their own people and received the commendation from "The Herald" to go home and tell the good news. A duet was sung by Edna Dowler and Dorothy Crooks after which Miss Ethel Spray in a well prepared address presented the great call which comes to the Christian Endeavorers.

All present were deeply impressed with the realistic and unique presentation of the needs of the various nations, and went home feeling that the evening had been one of great profit. The program was under the capable direction of Miss Bernice Sessler.

PRESIDENT'S SPEECH

a settlement all around effected in this fashion by individual barter and concession he would have no objection, if I correctly interpret his statement, to a league of nations which would undertake to hold the new balance of power steady against external disturbances.

"It must be evident to everyone who understands what this war has left in the opinion and temper of the world that no general peace worth the infinite sacrifices of these years of tragedy can possibly be arrived at in any such fashion.

"The messages the German Chancellor proposes is the method of the congress of Vienna. We cannot and will not return to that. What is at stake now is the peace of the world. What we are striving for is a new international order based upon broad and universal principles of right and justice; no more peace of shreds and patches.

"It is possible that Count Von Hertling does not see; that he does not grasp it; is, in fact living in his thought in a world dead and gone?

"Has he utterly forgotten the Reichstag resolution of the 19th of July or does he deliberately ignore them? He spoke of the conditions of a general peace, not of national aggrandisement or arrangement between state and state. The peace of the world depends upon the just settlement of each of these problems to which I alluded in my recent address to Congress.

"Of course do not mean that the peace of the world depends upon the acceptance of any particular set of suggestions as to the way in which those problems are to be dealt with. I mean only that those problems each and all affect the whole world. That unless they are dealt with the spirit of unselfish and unbiased justice with a view to the wishes of the neutral convictions, the racial aspirations, the security and peace of mind of the peoples involved, no permanent peace will have been attained. They cannot be discussed separately or in corners. None of them constitute a private or separate interest from which the opinion of the world may be shut out. Whatever affects the peace affects mankind and nothing settled by military force if settled wrong, is settled at all. It will presently have to be reopened.

"Is Count Von Hertling not aware that he is speaking in the court of mankind, that all the awakened nations of the world now sit in judgment on what every public man of whatever nation may say on the national issues of the conflict that has extended to every part of the world?

"The Reichstag resolution frankly accepted the decision of that country that there shall be no annexations, no indemnities, no contributions, no punitive damages. Peoples are not to be handed about from one sovereignty to another by an international conference or understanding between rivals and antagonists.

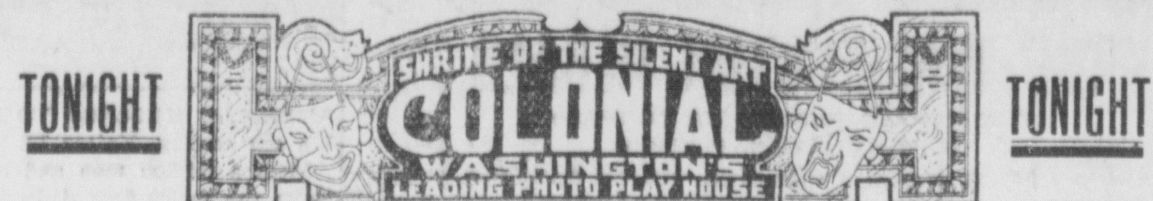

"National aspirations must be respected and peoples may now be dominated and governed only by their own course.

"Self determination is not a mere phrase. It is an imperative principle of action which statesmen will henceforth ignore at their peril. We cannot have general peace for the asking, or by the arrangement of a peace conference. It cannot be pieced together out of individual understandings between powerful states. All the parties to this war must join in the settlement of every issue anywhere involved in it because what we are seeking is peace that we can all unite to guarantee and maintain and every item of it must be submitted to the common judgment whether it be right and an act of justice rather than a bargain between sovereigns.

The United States has no desire to interfere in European affairs or to act as arbiter in Europe's territorial disputes. We would disdain to take advantage of any internal weakness or disorder to impose our own will upon another people.

"She is quite ready to be shown that the settlements she has suggested are for the best, and most enduring. They are only her provisional sketch of principles and of the way in which they should be applied. She entered this war because she was made a partner, whether she would or not, in the sufferings and indignities inflicted by the military masters of Germany against the peace and security of mankind; and the condition of peace will touch her as nearly as they will touch any other nation to which is entrusted a leading part in the maintenance of civilization. She cannot see her way to peace until the causes of this war are removed, its renewal rendered as nearly as may be impossible.

"This war had its roots in the disregard of the rights of small nations and of nationalities which lacked union and the force to make good their

Chas. Gunn in Framing Framers

Real live millionaires, prominent jurists and members of the smart set of Eastern cities are used as atmosphere in the Triangle play "Framing Framers." The Beverly Hills hotel, nestling at the foot of the Santa Monica mountains, and midway between the Pacific Ocean and Los Angeles, favorite playground for the rich in both winter and summer, forms the setting for a greater part of this picture. It was the elite of the nation that were "free actors" in this gripping drama of the screen. With the arrival of Charles Gunn at the beautiful entrance of the fashionable hostelry jurist, millionaire meat packer and society favorite, guests at the hotel, are seen idling curiously in the background. And these unknowingly saved Director Hartman hiring numerous extras for "atmosphere."

claim to determine their own allegiances and their own form of political life.

"Covenants must now be entered into which will render such things impossible for the future; and those covenants must be backed by the united force of all the nations that love justice and are willing to maintain it at any cost.

"If territorial settlement and the political relations of great populations which have not the organized power to resist are to be determined by the contracts of the powerful governments which consider themselves most directly affected as Count Hertling proposes, why may not economic questions also? It has come about in the altered world in which we now find ourselves that justice and the rights of people affect the whole field of international dealings as much as access to raw material and fair and equal conditions of trade.

"Count Von Hertling wants the essential basis of commercial and industrial life to be safeguarded by common agreement and guarantees, but he cannot expect that to be conceded him if the other matters to be determined by the articles of peace are not handled in the same way as items in the final accounting. He cannot ask the benefit of common agreement in the one field without according it in the other. I take it for granted that he sees that separate and selfish, and complaints with regard to trade and the essential materials of manufacture would afford no foundation for peace. Neither, he may rest assured, will separate and selfish compacts with regard to provinces and peoples.

"Count Czernin seems to see the fundamental elements of peace with clear eyes and does not seek to obscure them. He sees that an independent Poland made up of all the indisputable Polish people who lie contiguous to one another is a matter of European concern and must of course be conceded; that Belgium must be evacuated and be restored no matter what sacrifices and concessions that may involve; and that national aspirations must be satisfied even within his own empire, in the common interest of Europe and mankind. If he is silent about questions which touch the interest and purpose of his allies more nearly than they touch those of Austria only, it must of course be because he feels constrained, I suppose, to defer to Germany and Turkey in the circumstances. Seeing and conceding as he does, the essential principles involved and the necessity of applying them, he naturally feels that Austria can respond to the purpose of peace as expressed by the United States with less embarrassment than could Germany. He probably would have gone much further had it not been for the embarrassment of Austria's alliances and her dependence upon Germany.

"After all, the test of whether it is possible for either government to go any further in this comparison of views is simple and obvious. The principles to be applied are these: (Here the President cites the four reasons before mentioned).

"A general peace erected upon such foundations can be secured. Until such a peace can be secured we have no choice but to go on. So far as we can judge these principles that we regard as fundamental are already everywhere accepted as imperative except among the spokesmen of the military and annexationist party in Germany. If they have anywhere else been rejected the objections have not been sufficiently numerous or influential to make their voices audible.

"The tragical circumstance is that this one party in Germany apparently is willing and able to send millions of men to their death to prevent what all the world now sees to be just.

"I would not be a true spokesman of the people of the United States if I did not say once more that we entered this war upon no small occasion and that we can never turn back from a course chosen upon principle. Our resources are in part mobilized now, and we shall not pause until they are mobilized in their entirety. Our armies are rapidly going to the fighting front and will go more and more rapidly. Our whole strength will be put into this war on emancipation for the threat and attempted mastery of selfish groups of autocratic rulers—whatever the difficulties and present partial delays.

"We are indomitable in our power of independent action and can in no circumstances consent to live in a world governed by intrigue and force.

"We believe that our own desire for a new international order under which reason and justice and the common interest of mankind shall prevail is the desire of enlightened men everywhere. Without that new order the world will be without peace and human life will lack tolerable conditions of existence and development. Having set our hand to the task of achieving it we shall not turn back.

"I hope that it is not necessary for me to add that no word of what I have said is intended as a threat. That is not the temper of our people. I have spoken thus only that the whole world may know the true spirit of America—that men everywhere may know that our passion for justice and for self-government is no mere passion of words but a passion which once set in action must be satisfied. The power of the United States is a menace to no nation of people. It will never be used in aggression for the aggrandisement of any selfish interest of our own. It springs out of freedom and is for the service of freedom."

"CRIP" REMEMBERED BY HIS FRIENDS

"Crip" is happy. "Crip" is the little yellow, three-legged dog that may be seen on the streets almost any day. He is everybody's dog and belongs to no one in particular, but has some staunch friends who have just come to his rescue at the time "when a feller needs a friend."

The license law threatened to usher "Crip" into the saccarine subequently, because he had no license tag and no collar.

A day or two ago A. W. Duff, R. S. Sanderson, Glenn Pine, Frank Blessing, Fred Crone and R. C. Shisler purchased a handsome collar and bought the tag which insures "Crip" at least one year more of life—insofar as the dog catcher is concerned.

MAN IS BITTEN; DOGS ON STREET WILL BE KILLED

Chief of Police D. L. Moore announced Monday afternoon that a mad dog had been killed in the city after it had bitten a man.

In order to prevent an outbreak of the rabies all dogs found on the streets after night will be killed, regardless of whether they are tagged, it is announced.

It is believed a number of dogs were bitten by the rabid animal, and that unless this precaution is taken other dogs will become afflicted.

The man, whose name was not announced, has been taken to a hospital for pasteur treatment.

MORE FLAX WILL BE PRODUCED

(By Associated Press Cable) Belfast, Ireland, February 11.—The British government soon will launch a 10,000,000 lbs. scheme for increasing the cultivation of flax for the manufacture of airplane wings.

Estimates by experts show that the quantity of flax usually grown in Ireland, would not be sufficient in the coming year for this and other demands.

Farmers who own land suitable for the purposes, will be offered subsidies and the government probably will secure in addition, large areas of land in the midlands and south of Ireland.

There is likely to be a scarcity of seed, and experiments are to be made with the use of Canadian seed.

SOLDIERS'
LETTERS

In France,
January 10, 1918.

Dear Mother and Sis:

What kind of a Christmas did you have? We had one of the best dinners I have seen in the army. It would have done credit to any family of moderate circumstances in the States. We have not received our Christmas packages yet.

We are quartered with a French family, and I surely have drawn a good one. Another thing that adds to my pleasure, is that the corporal and the other squad that is here with me are all fine fellows. My squad is also made up of good fellows. I have a southern lad in my squad that is a regular joker and one from Washington C. H. that is just like him, so we never want for a hearty laugh.

There is a snow on now that is a snow. They don't have heavy ones here, but the one on now reminds me

PREPARING GUIDES FOR FAYETTE ROADS

County Highway Superintendent Tom Grove, conferred with the County Commissioners, Monday, with reference to the erecting of certain guides on the main highways of the county, and as result of the conference the work of erecting the posts and indicators will take place this spring.

The posts will be erected at various points on the main highways, at road intersections so that motorists passing through the county may obtain desired information without being compelled to retrace their journey in part, or stop and make inquiry.

Fayette has long been behind other counties in this respect, and the action in locating the indicators will meet with general approval and leave a much more favorable impression of the county among motorists from all over the country.

"LIBERTY LOAF" IS NEAR AT HAND

The United States war bread, or "Liberty Loaf" is now in the process of formation, and by the 24th of this month the full-fledged war bread will be baked by every baker in the United States.

At the present time in this city the war bread contains 15 percent of rice flour, bolted middlings and potato flour.

The bread is not as white as it was before the extra cereal was added, but it makes a very appetizing loaf and one which is expected to be far more healthful than the former loaf in which all wheat flour was used.

KEEP STREAMS CLEAN

Columbus, Feb. 11.—County engineers of the state, who met with John I. Miller, superintendent of public works, formed an organization, through which state officials will be kept advised of conditions of streams.

Twenty-seven county engineers from counties usually affected by flood conditions attended the meeting here. Reports from the various counties indicated that conditions of streams at present are similar to those which preceded the flood of 1884. There is from seven to 12 inches of snow and from 18 to 24 inches of ice on most of the streams. "If the thaw is gradual and without much rain there is no danger of flood," declared Superintendent Miller.

The engineers will get busy at once in clearing streams and preventing gorges. Because of war-time regulations as to the use of dynamite, county officials were advised by Superintendent Miller that they must obtain licenses from their county clerks for the purchase and use of explosives.

The engineers will serve as lookouts for flood conditions. When they scent danger they will notify proper officials. They also agreed to encourage formation of home guard organizations for patrol duty along streams and relief work in case of floods.

AMERICANS ARE TRAPPED

(By American Press)
Paris, Feb. 11.—Five American soldiers are believed to have been killed, four are missing and one was wounded when an American patrol was ambushed in No Man's Land by a superior force of Germans.

The spot where the encounter occurred is an isolated one and reports concerning the casualties inflicted by both sides are meager. Only one American is known to have escaped the trap of the Germans, which was laid in front of the wires. The one survivor, who crawled back to the American lines with a bullet in his chest, is unable to talk.

American artillery immediately laid a barrage around the ambushing Germans and some are believed to have been accounted for. The infantry accounted for others, as it is certain the attacked patrol fought to a finish, according to information trickling in from the front line.

An American general now commands the sector of the front recently taken over by American troops. When Americans first entered the sector it was under the command of a French general commanding a certain large unit of the French army. In turning the sector over to the American general the French commander issued a general order in which he expressed complete satisfaction with the United States troops and was confident that the sector was in good hands and if attacked would defend it with great valor.

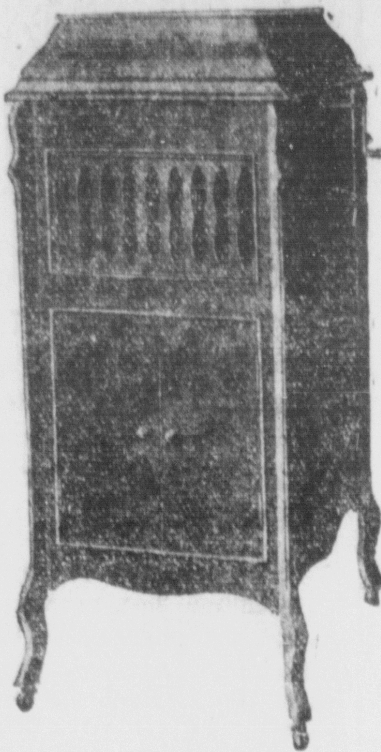

One American artilleryman was killed and five artillerymen were wounded Saturday night by shell fire.

SEES BEGINNING
OF BIG OFFENSIVE
(By American Press)
Washington, Feb. 11.—Development of Germany's long deferred offensive in the west from the reconnoitering thrusts launched during the past week around Cambrai and at other points is suggested as a possibility in the weekly military review issued by the war department. So far, however, in spite of heavy fighting, the department says, no actions of more than local character have been recorded.

The review tells of the torpedoing of the liner Tuscania, which carried more than 2,100 American soldiers, and attributes the relatively small loss of life, estimated at about 112 men, to the fine discipline of the soldiers and efficiency of those in command. It expresses profound appreciation of the rescue work of the British navy.

Describing briefly the activities of the American troops occupying a sector of the Lorraine front, the department says they have shown themselves well fitted for their task and are rapidly being accustomed to trench warfare.

Musically the World's Greatest Instruments
With a Fascinating New Feature

THIS SUPERB INSTRUMENT plays music—every manner of music—with a tonal beauty which is not mere musical imitation but which is actual musical realism. The deeper tones—bass and baritone, 'cello, bass viol and tuba—are reproduced with a new and remarkable richness and "body." The high notes of soprano, violin and flute, come forth from this wonderful instrument with the sweetness and purity of the original renditions.

There are times when merely to listen to music, however beautiful, is not enough. There are times when we long to express our own musical thoughts—when we must voice the wordless emotions which music arouses in all our own hearts.

And this longing THE KETTROPHONE satisfies. For in a simple device which has been named the Graduola we find this means of musical self-expression. We are able to participate ourselves in the making of beautiful music.

"I HAVE NEVER FELT BETTER
IN MY LIFE"

This Is the Statement of a Cincinnati Woman After She Had Given Tanlac a Trial.

"I took five bottles of Tanlac altogether and it has made me feel better than I even did in my life," said Miss Mary Hines, 120 West Eighth street, Cincinnati, O.

"My stomach was out of order before I took Tanlac. The food I ate caused gas to form in my stomach and made me feel bloated. I had bad headaches often and sometimes I had to stay in bed because of them.

"I was nervous, too, and I was so restless at night that I couldn't sleep. I often got up at night and read a book to quiet myself.

"A friend urged me to try Tanlac. The first bottle seemed to help my stomach so I kept on taking Tanlac. The second bottle helped my nerves a lot and I began to sleep better. Then my appetite came back and I have gradually improved until now, since I've taken five bottles, I believe I feel better than I ever did before. The housework I do doesn't tire me out at all now."

Get Tanlac and get your system back in shape. Don't feel half-sick. You can get Tanlac at Blackmer & Tanquary's drug store; Frank Christopher's drug store, or C. S. Haver's drug store. Adv.

DAVID HOPKINS OF THIS CITY HOLDS ENVIABLE RECORD

Believed to Be the Only Man in Fayette County Who Answered First Call for Volunteers and Was Soldier Throughout the Great Struggle of Four Years, Without a Wound.

War Veteran David Hopkins of the B. H. Millikan Post, has the distinction of being, so far as can be learned, the only G. A. R. man in this section of the country, who responded to the service call in the Civil War, and, with the exception of between two and three months, was in active service until mustered out in September of 1865.

Comrade Hopkins can boast with well-justified pride of such a record and all the more remarkable is the fact that at the ripe age of 48 years despite nearly five years of strenuous army life, he is in excellent health and leads a more active life than many far younger men.

When Abraham Lincoln, in '61, called for 75,000 volunteers for three months service, Mr. Hopkins promptly enlisted in the Twenty-second O. V. I. Company, and entered the service in April of that year. At the end of four months he came home expecting to give up army life, but he soon became restless and eager to return, again enlisting in the Fifty-fourth Ohio in October '61.

Serving for two and a half years and ranking as a veteran, instead of retiring with honor, as he might well have done, this seasoned comrade enlisted once more—this time for the remainder of the war, no matter how long it lasted. He took part in many of the leading battles: Pittsburg Landing, Shiloh, Atlanta, Vicksburg, Champion Hill and others, and marched in Sheridan's march to the sea. Later Mr. Hopkins engaged in the successful siege of Columbia, So. Carolina, and triumphantly made the march through Raleigh, No. Carolina, Petersburg and Richmond, Va., to Washington, D. C., where he participated in the "Grand Review," that proud parade of the troops of General Grant and General Sheridan.

The record of this Civil War veteran is all the more amazing when it is realized that he passed through the great struggle of 4 years without an accident of any kind. He was never wounded or taken prisoner and even escaped without the subsequent diseases which left their mark upon so many of "the boys of '61."

ADDITIONAL TESTS OF SEED CORN MADE BY FAYETTE SCHOOLS

Additional reports of tests made by various schools in the county show that the seed corn situation is very bad, and while a few of the tests revealed some good seed corn, the majority of them indicated that considerably less than one-half of the corn will germinate.

The results reported by the following teachers and announced by Supt. O. S. Nelson, will be found of general interest:

- O. O. Bush, Union, 92 percent. Four other tests by Mr. Bush showed the following results, 10 percent, 20 percent, 34 percent, 40 percent.
- Pauline Pine, Union, 27 percent; Laura Carper, Green, 91 percent; Bertha Mowery, Paint, 91 percent; Bertha Armstrong, Jefferson, 31 percent; Margaret Barclay, Madison, 45 percent; C. W. Richards, Paint, 17 percent; Clyde Summer, Perry, 45 percent; Dorothy Ware, Marion, 36 percent; Edna Thompson, Union, 97 percent; S. T. Hosler, Jasper, 70 percent; Arland Roush, Green, 32 percent; Bernice Taylor, Wayne, three tests—7 per cent, 35 percent, 84 percent; Homer Johnson, Perry, 92 percent.

250,000 MEN ARE WANTED

(By American Press)

Washington, Feb. 11.—The emergency fleet corporation, through state councils of defense, will attempt this week to enlist 250,000 or more skilled workmen in its shipyard volunteer reserve.

The week has been designated as registration week in every state.

The purpose in establishing the reserve is to create a body of skilled workers who can be called on for service in the shipyards as they are needed. The classes of workers especially sought are: Acetylene and electrical welders, asbestos workers, blacksmiths, anglesmiths, drop forge men, flange turners, furnace men, boiler makers, riveters, reamers, carpenters, ship carpenters, dock builders, chippers and calkers, electrical workers, electricians, wiremen, crane operators, foundry workers, laborers, loftmen, template makers, machinists and machine hands, painters, plumbers, pipefitters, sheet metal workers, coppersmiths, chiselfitters, structural iron workers, erectors, bolters up, cementers and crane men.

"The organization," said Chairman Hurley of the shipping board, "is to be composed of workmen who are willing to give a good day's work for a good day's pay, workmen who are not asked to sacrifice present positions to rush madly off to the shipyards which may not be able to accommodate them for the moment, but who stand ready, when called upon, to do a particular job for a particular wage in a particular place, and who enroll themselves so that when needed they may be readily reached."

"The need of the nation is great. The shipping board has the money, the housing of men is being arranged for, the yards are being completed and the materials provided. All that now is lacking is the spirit in the nation that will send the best and most efficient mechanics into the yards, but not in a fashion to disrupt the business of the country through the robbing of present industries. It is planned to make a careful selection of men whose places can be filled without hardship, and who when called upon to give up the job they now hold will have waiting for them definite positions at definite wages in definite yards."

Illinois officials declared that the state can spare at least 100,000 skilled mechanics, although its quota is only 25,662 men.

WHEAT UNINJURED BY LASTING SNOW

Farmers who have examined their wheat under the heavy carpet of snow or at points where the snow has melted away during the past few days, declare that the wheat is as green as it was before the great blizzard and long cold spell, and apparently not damaged in the slightest.

What is now mostly feared is that the great accumulation of water on the surface, prevented from draining off by the ice-filled ditches, will damage plots of the wheat before it drains away.

Double the Supply of Poultry and Eggs in the United States and Increase the Amount of Available Food 1,500,000 Tons

One hundred hens and several hundred chickens on the average farm, rightly managed, can get nearly all their living in spring, summer and fall "from the land." In feeding themselves they will utilize nearly all the waste grain, and consume great quantities of weeds, weed seeds and destructive insects.

One hundred hens and a few hundred chicks can turn a lot of farm waste into good food. Incidentally the poultry will leave on the land valuable fertilizer at the rate of two or three tons for every hundred birds.

One hundred hens on every farm, and one hundred eggs from every hen, mean more poultry and eggs for consumption on the farm, more to sell, more to substitute for red meat, and more power to our arms and the allies.
